Following The Money: Why Are Churches REALLY Pushing The Vaxx Agenda?

Watch on

Continuing this series, we look at another potential subversion agent.

We know that Trudeau finances his political opponents, which is partly why they only provide token opposition to the things he does. Hundreds of law firms got the wage subsidy among other grants, including some “freedom lawyers”, and Bar Associations. The topic of media subsidies has been extensively documented.

How deep does this rabbit hole go? Have religious organizations also been tempted by dark money to sacrifice their believers?

Just a thought: but with this level of funding at stake, is it any wonder why so many religious groups are now shilling for the vaccines? Have they (en masse) decided that money tops what should be their primary role in society? While the existence of these payments is not necessarily proof or corruption, the size and scale are impossible to ignore.

Let's look at some of the pathways that are open. The sheer number of religious groups getting money is mind blowing. But at the same time, it may explain an awful lot.

Either get shut down by force, or take the cash to play along….

Of course, this is all very short sighted. Anyone with a rudimentary understanding of history knows that Communists (like the ones in power) ultimately want to get religion and faith out of society. These useful idiots will go once they've served their purpose.

This is just the first page on the CEWS site, or Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy. (See new link) While there are a number of irrelevant entries, there are still about 3,000 or so recipients that get flagged by searching under the term "CHURCH". Of course, this wouldn't include other religious affiliations who'd also be eligible.

Kudos to the National Post for covering it early on. It's extremely rare to see something like this.

Grants and Contributions
Title: The United Church Observer
Agreement Number: 1325388
Agreement Value: $338,513.00
Agreement Date: Apr. 1, 2019 - Mar. 31, 2020
Description: Canada Periodical Fund
Organization: Canadian Heritage
Expected Results: Provide funding to Canadian magazines and non-daily newspapers, with flexibility to allow them to direct funds to the areas of greatest need. Recipients can spend the funds on a variety of publishing activities, such as content creation, production, distribution, or business development.

> Organization: Employment and Social Development Canada
> Program Name: SDPP-CF - Supporting Black Communities - Grant
> Location: Toronto, Ontario, Canada M4E2B3

Also, a good number of these grants are pushing the “woke” racial nonsense. Great use of Canadian taxpayer dollars.

To be fair, there were a lot of these grants that came PRIOR to 2020. Still, when Ottawa is just handing over money, one has to wonder if there were any “understandings” that took place. It can’t all just be free, can it? This is just a sample of what these groups have been getting lately.

And this one is interesting: nearly $2 million to make temporary foreign workers aware of their rights, and to help out with legal clinics.

Registered charities such as churches are (for the most part), eligible for CERS, the Canada Emergency Rent Subsidy. One more line of financing from Ottawa. People who use substances

Harm reduction information for people who use substances, overdose prevention services and supervised consumption sites and social services.

We recognize that many of the public health messages being shared on COVID-19 are hard to practice when people are living outside, in a tent, in an SRO, or in a shelter. People who use drugs are already doing incredible work to keep communities safe and reduce the spread of infection. We need creative solutions to slow down the spread of COVID-19 and protect people who use drugs, have underlying health conditions, and/or may be elderly.

For people who use substances

Risk of overdose

- COVID-19 is a virus that can cause a respiratory infection and other health problems.
- Fentanyl and other opioids can slow a person's breathing rate, so COVID-19 may increase the risk of overdose death from opioids.

Practice safer drug use to decrease transmission

- Remember ways to prevent overdoses: use with someone or let someone know you're using, start low and go slow, split your doses, or use less if you are feeling unwell
- Avoid sharing supplies, such as cigarettes, joints, pipes, injecting equipment, containers for alcohol, utensils, and other supplies. If you have to share, wipe pipes with alcohol wipes or use new mouthpieces.
- Reduce close contact (e.g. shaking hands, hugging, kissing) and use condoms.
- Wash your hands or use wipes before preparing, handling or using your drugs. Prepare your drugs yourself.
- Cough or sneeze into your elbow or use tissues. Throw tissues away as soon as possible and wash your hands thoroughly.
- Clean surfaces with soap and water, alcohol wipes, bleach or hydrogen peroxide before preparing drugs if possible.
- Carry naloxone and have an overdose plan.

Accessing testing

Accessing testing

- For most up to date information, see the testing page or use the self-assessment tool.
- It is especially important for people who develop cold, influenza or COVID-19-like symptoms to be tested if they are:
  - People living and working in communal settings such as shelters, group homes, assisted living and seniors' residences
  - People who are homeless or have unstable housing

Buddy up

- Buddy up when you are using. COVID-19 is passed by droplets. Stay 2 metres (6.5 ft.) from your buddy to avoid passing the virus. Using with a buddy is safer than using alone.
- Find your "buddies" who can bring you food, harm reduction supplies, medicine, and substances so that you can stay well. You can also be a buddy to those who may need extra support. Check in on your buddies regularly.

If you are quarantined or in isolation

- See if your buddy can pick up supplies including naloxone from a harm reduction site.
- Try to have the substances you need to stay well. Know that carrying large amounts may put you at risk by the police and other people looking to score. Consider alternatives to your drug of choice and prepare for potential supply disruptions.
- You may go through involuntary withdrawal if your dealer gets sick. Have backup plans and be cautious if using a new supply.
- Try to have the medications you need, re-fills may be available directly through your pharmacist or by phone without having to see your physician. If you are feeling unwell and require medications, call your pharmacy in advance.
- The province of British Columbia with the BC Centre on Substance Use, issued interim guidance titled Risk Mitigation: in the Context of Dual Public Health Emergencies. This was developed for people who use substances to enable physical distancing and self-isolation measures, to reduce and prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Continuing essential services

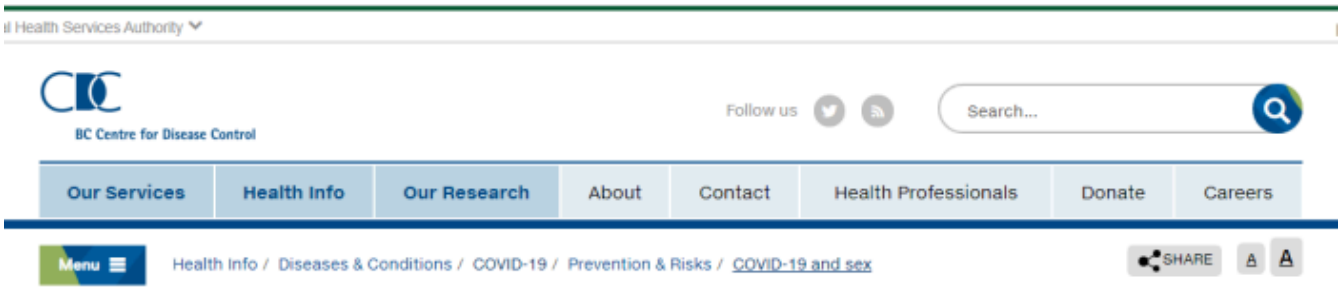
Continuing essential social services while integrating public health principles to minimize transmission of COVID-19

The Provincial Health Officer's order of no gatherings with more than 50 people is intended to apply to one-time, entertainment, community and social events. Shelters and single room occupancy housing are exempt from this order because from a public health perspective, shelters and SROs are regarded as peoples' homes.

Overdose prevention sites and supervised consumption sites are exempt from the Provincial Health Officer's order of no gatherings, as they are clinical spaces providing essential services. Service delivery should continue as much as possible.

The greatest health risk to a client at on OPS or SCS site is overdose.

While continuing to provide essential services, it is encouraged your services:



COVID-19 and Sex

If you're feeling well and have no symptoms of COVID-19, you can have sex

Masturbating:

You are your safest sex partner. Masturbating by yourself (solo sex) will not spread COVID-19. If you masturbate with a partner(s), physical distancing will lower your chance of getting COVID-19.

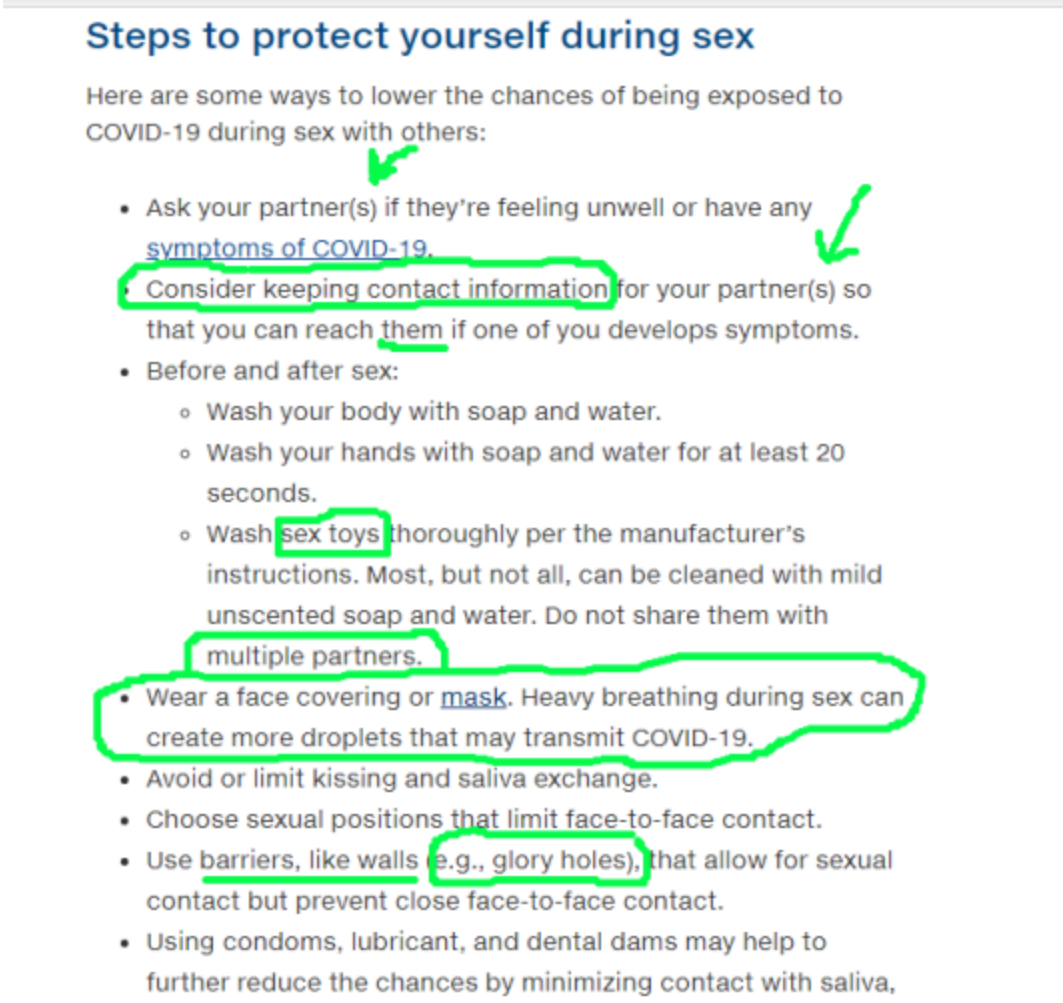
Virtual Sex:

Video dates, phone chats, sexting, online chat rooms and group cam rooms are ways to engage in sexual activity with no chance of spreading COVID-19. Be aware of the risks of sharing information or photos online, and web camming. Some people do not share personal information or show their face or other identifiable body parts, for more privacy.

Sex with partner(s):

Having 1, or a few, regular sex partner(s) can help lower the chances of being exposed to COVID-19. Talk with your sex partner(s) about:

- The types of sexual activities you want to have with them, and
- The precautions that you can each take to make sex safer for you and your sex partner(s), like wearing a mask and social distancing, and



Steps to protect yourself during sex

Here are some ways to lower the chances of being exposed to COVID-19 during sex with others:

- Ask your partner(s) if they're feeling unwell or have any symptoms of COVID-19.
- Consider keeping contact information for your partner(s) so that you can reach them if one of you develops symptoms.
- Before and after sex:
  - Wash your body with soap and water.
  - Wash your hands with soap and water for at least 20 seconds.
  - Wash sex toys thoroughly per the manufacturer's instructions. Most, but not all, can be cleaned with mild unscented soap and water. Do not share them with multiple partners.
- Wear a face covering or mask. Heavy breathing during sex can create more droplets that may transmit COVID-19.
- Avoid or limit kissing and saliva exchange.
- Choose sexual positions that limit face-to-face contact.
- Use barriers, like walls (e.g., glory holes), that allow for sexual contact but prevent close face-to-face contact.
- Using condoms, lubricant, and dental dams may help to further reduce the chances by minimizing contact with saliva,

This topic has been covered before. Many places, like British Columbia, openly promote degenerate behaviour, drug use and abortion during this "pandemic". At the same time, stable institutions like religion, and family events (like weddings and funerals) must be interfered with.

Restaurants may have been shut down in 2020, but B.C. did release a guide to "safely" go about doing sex work (prostitution).

It's also worth pointing out that religious groups — at least those calling themselves Christians — are remarkably silent on what's going on around them. Maybe the message is to not call out destructive activities if one's donors happen to be funding them.
